RANDOM ACTS OF GREEN®

Description:

Random Acts of Green Presents: Intersectional Environmentalism 101

This webinar invites attendees for an introductory presentation about the intersections between race, culture, and the environment, including LGBTQ2+, Eco-Ableism, Environmental Racism, Indigenous Communities, Asian Communities and Socio-Economic barriers within the context of the contemporary western environmental movement.

The event is intended to educate and raise awareness about the need for a diverse and inclusive approach to climate action to ensure that all voices are welcomed, honoured, and involved in the call for more sustainable lifestyles.

Random Acts of Green would like to educate members in our community about the need to create space in the environmental movement for minority groups. We recognize that minority groups are often disproportionately exposed to environmental hazards – yet are often left out of important discussions.

Learning Outcomes:

- ➊ Become familiar with the term Intersectional Environmentalism and its importance in tackling environmental problems
- ➋ Be able to identify flaws and barriers in communications that make sustainable action difficult for some groups
- ➌ Be able to recognize and seek out opportunities for the design of more inclusive messaging and approaches for encouraging climate action through ally-ship

Ideal For:

- ➊ Those looking to begin their educational journey about diversity and inclusion, through an environmental lens
- ➋ Environmental & Sustainability Professionals
- ➌ Life-long learners with a personal interest in encouraging collective climate action
- ➍ Individuals passionate about taking part in important dialogue and contributing to meaningful conversations

Key Questions:

- ➊ How can we create a more diverse and inclusive approach to encouraging collective climate action?
- ➋ How can we create space for minority groups in the climate action landscape by amplifying their voices?
- ➌ How can we truly be allies to minority groups?
- ➍ How can we have more meaningful discussions about the intersections between race, culture and the environment that bring about real change?
